
One Witch's Mission to Magic Some of Life's Messiest Problems

February 17, 2024

HUMBOLDT COUNTY, California -- In the forested hills of Humboldt dwells a priestess with a purpose. Lana Borealis calls herself, “an energy healing, demon wrangling, priestess witch,” and she wants to help people out of the muck of being human, especially those who suffer from addiction and substance abuse.

Borealis has created a 13-week online group program called Magic Keys to Freedom ~ Overcome Addiction & Substance Abuse. It's for all the witches, mermaids, mystics, magicians, and misfits out there who are ready to heal their deep trauma and take control of their lives.

“It's really for everyone,” Borealis said, “but it's especially for those magic beings with addictions or substance problems who just don't fit in a ‘normal’ treatment program.”

With the rise of magic and spellcraft in popular culture, Borealis believes this is an idea whose time has come.

“I've been a professional energy healer for a decade and during that time I've helped countless people change their lives with energy magic, hypnosis, guided meditation, entity removal, brain repatterning, and self love practices,” Borealis stated. These techniques will be the cornerstones of her group program.

Magic Keys to Freedom

begins March 3, 2024

Because this is the first time she's ever offered this particular program, Borealis is offering the first tier entry into the program for free. “I really want everyone to have access to these tools,” she said. “There's going to be support. There's going to be ritual. There's going to be magic. There's going to be transformation.”

Nathan Viktory is a client of Borealis. “She's definitely out there, but I can attest that this woman will change the trajectory of your lived experience if you let her,” Viktory said.

While the program is focused on healing the root problems of addiction and substance abuse, Borealis claims that anyone can use the tools and support in this program to upgrade their lives and that everyone is welcome.

“Those individuals who embrace the magic and the spiritual and want their healing and support to join them in that realm, rather than just in the ‘real’ world. It’s for those magic-curious folks who don’t know how to quit drinking, gambling, or binge eating, or who just feel stuck and need a loving and supportive guide to help them get unstuck,” stated Borealis.

Borealis overcame her own battle with alcohol many years ago. That is a powerful motivating factor for her creation of this program. “I want to share the tools that helped me quit and have kept me from backsliding into self-harming patterns. I want to share my success with the world so they can be successful too.”

To learn more about Magic Keys to Freedom, visit EnergyMagicLove.com.

Borealis has been a practicing witch since she was a teenager. She trained and started working as a professional energy healer in early 2013. Borealis spent the next decade honing her skills and working with clients privately and in groups. She is certified in Soul Realignment® and by the Ethical Coaching Collective in Integrative Changework. In 2024, she created Energy Magic Love LLC to facilitate large group healing events and online programs.