

Proposed new national park trail open for public comment

August 19, 2020

The Redwood National Park seeks public comments on an Environmental Assessment (EA) for construction of a new hiking trail located off Highway 101 and Bald Hills Road.

Located about 16 miles south of Klamath and approximately one-mile-long, the Centennial Grove Trail and Berry Glen Connector Trail, will lead visitors through old-growth redwood forests and link into the California Coastal Trail, a network of trails that attempts to connect 1,200 miles of California coastline.

The public is invited to review the EA and provide comments during the 30-day public review period through Sept. 17. To view and download a copy of the Environmental Assessment and learn more about the project go to <https://parkplanning.nps.gov/projectHome.cfm?projectID=94140>.

Public comments may be submitted by:

Online through the park Planning, Environment and Public Comment (PEPC) website at <https://parkplanning.nps.gov/projectHome.cfm?projectID=94140>.

By mailing to:

Superintendent, Redwood National Park

1111 Second St.

Crescent City, Calif. 95531

Attn: Centennial Trail EA

Before including an address, phone number, email address or other personal identifying information in your comment, be aware that your entire comment — including your personal identifying information — may be made publicly available at any time.

For more information about the natural and cultural resources, recreational and educational opportunities, and current conservation projects at Redwood National and State Parks, go online to www.nps.gov/redw, Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/RedwoodNPS>, Twitter at <https://twitter.com/RedwoodNPS> and Instagram at <https://www.instagram.com/redwoodnps/>.