

Yurok Tribe executive director abruptly resigns

November 6, 2019

The Yurok Tribe has accepted Javier Kinney's resignation as executive director of the Yurok Tribe today, Nov. 4. In an effort to protect our employees and those who work with the Yurok Tribe the Human Resource Policies require personnel issues to remain confidential.

Accordingly, the Tribe has no further comment on Mr. Kinney's resignation.

The Tribe is committed to insuring the peace, harmony, and protection of individual human rights of all individuals who come into contact with our membership and employees.

To address questions or concerns from the community regarding the Tribe's Sexual Harassment Policy, the Tribe takes this opportunity to both acknowledge the historic trauma of our communities and the ongoing need to create a healthy work environment.
