

Rumiano Cheese Sells

June 20, 2025

Santori Cheese, a fourth-generation family-owned cheese company announced its acquisition of Rumiano Cheese, a leader in organic cheese and butter, renowned for its commitment and sustainability.

The Plymouth, Wisconsin company brings together two heritage brands with shared passion for crafting award-winning exceptional cheese.

“We are thrilled to welcome Rumiano into the Sartori family,” said Bart Sartori, CEO of Sartori Cheese.

“This action aligns with our mission to make the best cheese in the world. We look forward to building upon Rumiano’s commitment to their Redwood Coast family partners and local community. Rumiano’s dedication to excellence and innovation makes (Rumiano’s) a perfect fit for our company.”

Established in 1919, Rumiano Cheese has built a legacy of producing premium, pasture-raised organic cheese and butter with unwavering integrity.

“We are excited to join forces with Sartori Cheese,” said owner.” Baird Rumiano. “For over a 100 years, the Rumiano family has been dedicated to crafting exceptional cheese and butter. Sartori shares our core values and comittment to quality, tradition and responsible stewardship.

Masters Gallery Foods has acquired Rumiano's converting facilities in Willows.