

North Coast water safety program opens to local youth

July 22, 2020

The North Coast water safety program is now available for youth in Crescent City. This one-week program, similar to the former Junior Lifeguards Program, is hosted by California State Parks and provides youth ages 8-17 with necessary skills for safe marine recreation along the rugged coastline.

The program is Aug. 3-7 at Crescent Beach. There is a $200 tuition fee. Tuition assistance may be available on a first-come, first-serve basis. This program has implemented new COVID-19 safety measures.

Participants will gain confidence and expand their physical abilities by completing fun activities, games and sports on the beach and in the water. The program is led by trained lifeguards who will share their expertise and passion for ocean safety.

Youth who have participated in this program have saved lives. Two of the four teenagers who saved two brothers from a rip current in Trinidad last year completed this program. Read about the incident online at bit.ly/3fKj3Kp.
