
Wild Rivers Market Reopens Following Rat Infestation Cleanup

August 12, 2026

CRESCENT CITY — Wild Rivers Market has reopened after addressing a rat infestation that prompted temporary closure and extensive cleanup efforts. The store reopened on Saturday August 8, 2026 with work hours from 0900-5:30 p.m..

According to the market's press release, the store worked with health officials and pest-control professionals to eliminate the infestation, thoroughly sanitize the facility, and implement additional preventative measures before reopening to the public.

Management stated that customer health and safety remain its highest priorities and expressed appreciation for the patience and support shown by the community during the closure. The market indicated it has strengthened monitoring and prevention practices to reduce the likelihood of future pest problems.

Following inspections and completion of the required corrective actions, the market resumed normal operations and welcomed customers back.

The market encouraged shoppers with questions or concerns to contact store management directly for additional information.
