She was born on February 1, 1960, in San Diego, California, and departed from this world with grace and dignity.

Katie was a shining beacon of warmth and kindness throughout her 63 years of life. She was a steadfast presence in the lives of her loved ones, having shared 47 years with the love of her life, Jay Magill. Their enduring love and commitment to each other began at the jukebox and was unrelenting to the end.

As a mother, Katie was the embodiment of love and selflessness. Her daughters were not only her pride and joy but also a testament to her nurturing spirit.

For 35 years, Katie served as an employee of the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, 30 of which were spent as a plumber at Pelican Bay State Prison, a testament to her incredible work ethic and commitment to excellence.

She approached her job with the same dedication that defined her life, ensuring that every task was completed to perfection. Her coworkers and supervisors knew her as a reliable and trustworthy colleague, and her influence extended far beyond the workplace.

Katie enjoyed the music of life. From her days sitting in the sun in Gasquet with the fresh air, to sitting in her favorite spot on Pebble Beach taking her many sunset pictures of Castle Rock, or that "one bird." She loved swimming in the Smith River, soaking in the sun on the perfect gravel bar or listening to music and dancing like no one was watching.

In her passing, Katie leaves behind a lasting impression of love, kindness, and the enduring impact of a life well-lived.

She will be deeply missed and fondly remembered by all who had the privilege of sharing in her remarkable journey. May her soul find eternal peace, and her memory forever light our way.
