

Letter: The martians invade New Jersey (again)

January 3, 2025

In his 1897 science fiction novel “War of the Worlds”, British author H.G. Wells wrote about an advanced, hostile extraterrestrial species from Mars landing the vanguard contingent of their formidable interplanetary invasion force in England, whereas the American filmmaker Orson Welles’ infamous 1938 radio adaptation featured the state of New Jersey as the Martian invasion location instead.

You may be asking yourself this vexing question at the end of 2024 - why New Jersey? Hundreds of unidentified flying objects being called “drones” that are reportedly the size of sports utility vehicles have been filmed making coordinated maneuvers in the skies over The Garden State for the past several weeks with no reasonable explanations forthcoming from government officials.

First of all, the media continually referring to this current swarm of East Coast UFOs as “drones” is problematic to begin with, because it is actually unknown at this time what these objects are. They are clearly too large and remain airborne too long to be any kind of conventional commercial drone aircraft. Nor is there any indication of foreign involvement whatsoever, other than the usual corrupt conservative congressmen on Israel’s payroll like Jeff Van Drew (R-NJ) blaming Iran for it!

Please.... The complicit cowards in the Congress and the corporate media can tell Israel to go to Hell now, which is where most of the genocidal Israeli war criminal political leadership belongs. Of course Iran isn’t the culprit. Where’s Tony Soprano when you need him?
